Learn about CVWD's proposed changes to how sewer rates are calculated for businesses and commercial customers.

CVWD has not raised its rates for sewer service since 2010 and is not proposing to increase the revenue it receives from sewer charges at this time. Rather, CVWD is proposing to restructure how the rates are calculated and to simplify the rates to reflect current customer demand. The proposed rate structure is based on customers' water use and the amount of water sent into the sewer system by individual customers.

If approved, this restructure would result some customers paying less and others paying more for their sewer service fees. Join us to learn how your business will be affected.
